Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

Claim 23,25 rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the written description requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to reasonably convey to one skilled in the relevant art that the inventor(s), at the time the application was filed, had possession of the claimed invention. The limitations of this claim are not in the specification as filed and therefore constitutes new matter.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 2-9,11-15, 17,19-21,22-25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over 5,362,271 to Butt. Butt discloses a linking loop type structure having an elongated tubular member (arm structure of each doll) with a pair of opposite ends (hands), tubular member being formed in the shape of a closed loop (when the hands of doll 10 are coupled together, forming closed loop), each end including a magnet (14), wherein the tubular member is constructed of stuffed fabric, including a retaining sack stitched to the tubular member (column 2 lines 43) wherein the magnet is retained, wherein the closed loop configuration is a circular configuration (when hands are coupled) and the tubular member is flexible. Butt further discloses a plurality of linking loop type structures connected together (fig 7,8) with each structure having an elongated tubular member (arms of the dolls) in the form of a closed loop (when the hands of the dolls are coupled together, as seen in the figures) and including a magnet. Butt discloses that the tubular member is constructed of stuffed fabric (column 2 line 36). Butt also discloses a keeper (one of the dolls 10) having a body portion and a plurality of first loop structures connected with the body (loop structure 42 the hand, see figure 17) and at least one second loop structure manually connectable to one of the first loop structures, wherein the second loop structure has a pair of free ends and a magnet (the arms of the second doll, 12, form the second loop structure and the hands are the free ends with magnets thereon). In that the dolls of Butt are magnetically attached via magnet 14, doll 12 is capable of linking both arms to the hand of doll 10.

Regarding the limitation of the tubular member being constructed of material that has memory to cause the toy to maintain a configuration, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use a material with memory since it has been held to be within the general skill of a worker in the art to select a known material on the basis of its suitability for the intended use. In re Leshin, 125 USPQ 416 (especially since applicant gives no criticality to the material, see page 4 paragraph 3 of specification).

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments filed 11-16-2005 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. The rejection of Butt is maintained. In that this device is made of a fabric material with stuffing, altering the material to make have more memory would require only routine skill in the art.

Conclusion

Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
